Student Learning Outcomes/Objectives

- By the end of this course, students will be able to 1. distill a primary purpose into a single compelling statement by a. selecting and narrowing their own topics. b. identifying and writing argumentative thesis statements. 2. order major points in a reasonable and convincing manner based on that purpose by a. engaging in the writing process—including prewriting, outlining, drafting, and revising. b. demonstrating the relationship between the thesis and outline. c. writing formal topic and sentence outlines. d. developing an introduction, body, and conclusion for each collegiate essay. 3. develop ideas using appropriate argumentative rhetorical patterns by a. employing reasonable, logical argumentative strategies to support fully the thesis. b. synthesizing source materials with original thought. 4. employ correct diction, syntax, usage, grammar, mechanics, punctuation and spelling by a. editing and revising their essays. b. addressing issues of style and audience through revision. 5. manage and coordinate basic information gathered from an outside source by a. critically analyzing the source materials. b. locating and using credible secondary sources. c. differentiating between opinions, facts, and inferences. d. quoting, paraphrasing, and summarizing source materials. e. documenting sources according to MLA standards through a Works Cited list and internal citations

Instructional Approach and Methods

1. Students will produce an argumentative writing sample at the first class meeting in order for the instructor to evaluate basic writing skills and to make referrals for further assessments.
2. In addition to the sample, students will complete a first-of-semester Multiple Sections Verification (MSV) objective exam (which does not receive a grade), an end-of-semester MSV objective exam (which counts 5% of the final grade), quizzes, in-class writings, and major graded papers. These writings represent a minimum for the course, and with drafts and informal writing assignments, students should write a min of 4000 words during the semester.

3. To successfully complete the course, students must not only earn a passing grade but also demonstrate mastery of the general education reading and writing competencies as reflected on the departmental rubrics. These competencies will be evaluated with each major paper.
4. Students will move through a process to complete major papers. The process will vary according to assignments, but it should include prewriting, outlining, drafting, and editing.
5. Students must write a minimum of four papers (including the writing sample). The instructor and peers will assess stages of the writing process for each paper, and the student will revise accordingly to arrive at a final draft. Revisions may receive daily points for addressing instructor and peer feedback, but once a student submits a major paper for a final grade, it cannot be resubmitted for a higher grade.
6. The student will keep all required paper drafts and make revisions according to instructions. The instructor may require that this process be completed electronically. Any major paper assignments evaluated outside of eLearn must be submitted to the instructor at the end of the semester.
7. The student will submit print or electronic notes, bibliographic information, rough drafts, and source material used in preparation of documented papers so that the instructor may verify paraphrased material and direct quotations. Additionally, students will submit all major papers to eLearn dropboxes for plagiarism detection.

Assessment, Evaluation and Testing Procedures

The instructor evaluates each paper on its own merits. While there is no single formula for evaluating any paper, in this course all papers will be assessed by standard rubrics. These rubrics will address criteria such as the quality of content and organization, thesis, specific detail to support and develop general statements, and the number and frequency of serious errors (such as fragments, comma splices, fused sentences, errors in agreement and tense, and awkward constructions). Repeated errors and deficiencies become significant in the evaluation of the student's writing. Since progress is the principal objective, students will have multiple opportunities to demonstrate mastery of the evaluated criteria.

Grading Scale

A	100% (900-1000 points)
B	80 – 89% (800-899 points)
C	70 – 79% (700-799 points)
D	60 – 69% (600-699 points)

A	100% (900-1000 points)
B	90% (800-899 points)
C	70-79% (700-799 points)

Assignments

A First Day Writing Sample, a first-of-semester Multiple Sections Verification (MSV) objective exam (which does not receive a grade), an end-of-semester MSV objective exam (which counts 5% of the final grade), quizzes, in-class writings, and major graded papers. These writings represent a minimum for the course, and with drafts and informal writing assignments, students should write a min of 4000 words during the semester.

Additional Course Requirements/Details/Information

Time Investment:

In a regular 15 week course in which students meet with their instructor 3 hours per week in the classroom, students are usually advised to plan 2 hours outside of class for every hour in class. This means a student is expected to spend 3 hours in the classroom and at least 6 hours outside of class for a minimum of 9 hours invested per week for completing reading and assignments and participating in the discussion board on eLearn. Some weeks may require less time such as at the beginning of the course while other weeks might require more time due to major projects or assessments later in the course.

Assessments:

See the Course Grade item in the Getting Started module for how your grades are determined. The course is divided into modules which comprise a certain percentage of the total course grade. Within each module, you will see how each assignment aligns with the module percentage.

Each assignment is graded on a point scale, whether it is a minor grade like a short quiz or a major grade like a final paper. However, the amount of points of an assignment varies depending on the type of assignment. In a writing-intensive course, papers comprise the bulk of the course grade. Each module contains information about the weight of that module, the breakdown of the items within that module, and the alignment of that module to the total course grade.

Check grades tab in Course Information to see your grades. You will see your current average throughout the course.

Keep in mind your final grade is based on your total points over 1000. This is the percentage you have earned for all your coursework to date. You can see this item at the top of your grades.

To illustrate, if a student has an 870/1000 points by the end of the course, this means the student has averaged 87% on all the work in the course. This student would earn a B for the college letter grade since a B is 80-89 (see syllabus grade breakdown). But those 30 points amount to many assignments. A student may think, "Hey, I am only 30 points away from an A!" However, the average is based on the total points from the class. Each item you complete is assessed using the points allotted to that item. Therefore, it is crucial to follow instructions closely for each assignment and meet each deadline since each assignment contributes to your course percentage total. And you should check your grade as you work through each module.

A final course average may be rounded up depending on if it is within 5 points of the next grade level, your attendance, submitting all work on due dates, your participation, and more. Any round up is at the instructor's discretion. Final grades are not negotiated. Keep track of your grade percentage and check it frequently to see where you stand and what you can do to improve your average. Keep copies of all your work and notify your instructor in a timely manner if you see anything that needs attention concerning your grades.

Extra credit may be available at times and will be connected to attending a college cultural event and a written commentary on it. These events will be announced in class and posted on our home page news.

Due Dates and Deadlines:

The instructions for each assignment can be found in the Course Information tab under Content. Self-check reading quizzes will close before class starts. They are part of your preparation for class. These are open book, 2-attempt short quizzes to show your mastery over the material you have read. There are no makeups for the self-check quizzes. Once they close, you will not be able to take a quiz, so check the schedule each day and make certain you do the homework. The same also applies to minor writing exercises, including discussion boards and drafts.

As noted in the English department syllabus, major assignments submitted past the deadline may receive a 10% per day late reduction in points earned. This applies to final papers as these are the only assignments that will be accepted late. See more about the policies in the syllabus.

Attendance:

Students are expected to attend class regularly, this being a key to success in the course. Any more than two week-long absences (of not logging onto our class eLearn) will begin to negatively affect a student's grade. After these absences, a student who misses class without notifying the instructor ahead of time may be penalized five points from his or her final, aggregate grade.

Communication:

Log into eLearn frequently to check schedule, grades, email, news, and assignments. Please include a subject line and sign your name for each message. The best way to contact the instructor is via the Classlist, which can be found under the course tools tab. Simply click on the instructor to compose a message. Do not forget to check your Walters State email as well.

Other Expectations:

Students are expected to respectfully listen to instructor during class lectures or to a classmate who is addressing the class during class discussions. As noted in the department syllabus, cell phones or other mobile devices should not be used during class unless approved for a specific class activity. Please do not text, check phone messages, or surf the net during class as this distracts the instructor and fellow classmates. If you have a family emergency and need to keep your phone on vibrate for an important call, please let the instructor know. Please do not use ear buds in classroom or lab unless approved for specific project.

As noted in the department syllabus, plagiarism may result in a zero for the assignment or failure in the course. When in doubt, quote, cite, and use only the specific sources listed for each assignment. Dropbox submissions will be checked by TurnItIn for possible plagiarism of previously submitted work or wording from online sources. If you have questions about what is or is not plagiarism, please contact the instructor. Please post before you read other students' posts to avoid possible plagiarism.

See more about plagiarism in the syllabus and the separate plagiarism item in the Getting Started module.

Carefully follow instructions for how you will be evaluated in order to earn the most points for assessed assignments.

You may have covered drinks in the classroom, but please do not have them in the classroom if we are using the mobile laptop cart or are in a computer lab. Please do not bring food into the classroom unless you have a documented medical need you have informed me about.

What you can expect from the instructor:

1. Students should expect a reply to emails within 24-48 hours.
2. Assignments should be graded within 2 weeks of calendar deadlines.
3. If you have a question about an assignment, email in time for a response well before a deadline. See eLearn's home page news for office hours. Be aware at times the instructor may be called to division, department, or committee meetings during office hours. Also, the instructor may be delayed in returning to office if assisting students after a class ends.

Required Software:

Microsoft Office Word is the required word processing software for this course. If you do not have Word on your computer, you will need to submit your word processing documents as Rich Text Format (.rtf).

You need a good Internet connection or access to a good Internet connection in order to manage the course. Have a backup plan in case your main Internet or computer access is not available. Keep in mind you can borrow a laptop or iPad from our technical services.

Emergency Situations:

In case of evacuation, follow instructor's directions. Do not leave campus and stay with the class until an all-clear is given by security. The instructor must check roll and report anyone who is not present. In case of relocation, proceed to a safe interior location such as a stairwell. In case of a lockdown, follow instructor's directions. Mute cell phones. Please let the instructor know about any medical issues you may have which might affect you.

Academic Honesty

Faculty expect all students to refrain from acts of academic misconduct including but not limited to:

Indulging in this type of conduct will subject the student to disciplinary sanctions, which may be imposed through the regular institutional procedures of Walters State Community College as outlined in the Student Handbook. Plagiarism will result in a grade of "0" for the paper/exam/presentation. Student Conduct and Disciplinary Sanctions contained in the college Catalog/Student Handbook apply (see policy 04:18:02 Disciplinary Sanctions). Plagiarism includes, but is not limited to the following:

- a. Using cut/paste tool from original document with no references given.
 - b. Copying another student's work and submitting it as one's own.
 - c. Forging or otherwise altering signatures.
 - d. Giving or falsifying academic documents or materials.
2. Cheating - construed as attempting to deceive or mislead which includes, but is not limited to the following:
 - a. Utilizing old tests, projects, notes or written papers.
 - b. Providing unauthorized information to a fellow student about exam content.
 - c. Receiving unauthorized aid from any source with quizzes, examinations, or other assignments.
 - d. Seeking information in an unacceptable manner during/preceding an exam or other assigned work (cheat sheet, verbal exchange, looking at another person's paper or electronic device, utilizing headphones, using textbook when the test/quiz is not an open book test/quiz, using textbook test bank etc.).
 - e. Consulting with a classmate or others when taking a computerized test.
 - f. Disregarding other specific policies and procedures outlined for a particular class.
 - g. Utilizing unapproved technology/electronic equipment during testing (i.e.: mobile devices such as cell phones, smart devices, or tablets, etc.).
 - h. Using the same Internet Protocol network address (IP address) as another student for testing without approval from the course faculty.
3. The use of any generative artificial intelligence (AI) tool, such as OpenAI's ChatGPT, Google's Bard, or any other pre-trained language model (commonly referred to as "chatbot"), must be cited for any assignment where it has been used and may not be used unless specifically allowed by your instructor. Please see your instructor or the course policies within the syllabus if you have questions.

If a student misses class, it is his or her responsibility to contact the instructor regarding missed assignments and/or activities and to be prepared for the next class assignment.
- Students enrolled in web courses must follow the course attendance policy defined for online attendance during the first week of class and throughout the term. Failure to do this may result in being dropped from the class during week one OR may result in the accrual of absences which may negatively impact the student's grade in the course.

FINANCIAL AID

Students receiving any type of financial aid or scholarship should contact the Financial Aid Office before making any changes to their schedule. Schedule changes without prior approval may result in loss of award for the current term and future terms.

All forms of student Financial Aid may be jeopardized or lost due to the lack of Satisfactory Academic Progress in one or multiple courses. Lack of Satisfactory Academic Progress may negatively impact a student's degree/certificate completion pace and further jeopardize Financial Aid eligibility.
