Student Learning Outcomes/Objectives

- 1. apply ENGL 1010 planning, organizing, drafting, revising and editing skills to the writing of literary argument papers in ENGL 1020.
- 2. read closely primary and secondary sources and understand them at interpretive and evaluative levels in preparation for writing about them.
- 3. distinguish among opinions, facts, inferences, and persuasive approaches in primary and secondary sources.
- 4. formulate thesis sentences based on readings of primary and/or secondary sources, to select material from them to support the thesis, and to write papers with well-developed ideas supporting the thesis.
- 5. use appropriate rhetorical patterns, such as comparison/contrast and argumentation, to demonstrate an understanding of the elements of fiction, poetry and drama in coherent essays which develop literary arguments from process to product.
- 6. manage, coordinate, and document primary and secondary sources according to MLA style in solving problems and arriving at decisions in the writing process.
- 7. compose papers using correct diction, syntax, usage, grammar, and mechanics.

Instructional Approach and Methods

1. The student will write at least 300 words on an assigned topic during the first week in order to refer the student with basic mechanical difficulties to placement testing or to the English

Learning Lab Technician. Students must also take a non-credit, objective MSV pre-test within the first week of classes.

2. In addition to the first-day writing sample, the student will write a minimum of four papers of at least 600 words each throughout the course. At least three of these papers must include primary source quotations and be documented according to MLA style. At least two of these papers must also include quotations from secondary sources such as articles from the WSCC Library databases. These papers represent a minimum for the course, and with drafts and informal writing assignments, students should write over 5000 words during the semester. The capstone project will count as the fourth paper.
3. The student will keep all required paper drafts and make revisions according to instructions. The instructor will require that this process be completed electronically.
4. The student must rewrite any lost papers. The student must also complete the objective MSV post-test, which will count toward the final grade.
5. The student will plan before writing each paper. For this purpose the student will write formal outlines.

Assessment, Evaluation and Testing Procedures

The instructor evaluates each paper on its own merits. All papers will be assessed by standard rubrics. These rubrics will address criteria aligned with the course objectives such as thesis, content, organization, style, mechanics, citation, and outlining. Repeated grammar errors and deficiencies become significant in the evaluation of the student's writing.

Grading Scale

A	90-100
B	80-89
C	70-79
D	60-69
F	0-59

Assignments

Assignment	Points
------------	--------

Assignment	Points
Essay One: Poetry	100
Essay Two: Fiction	150
Essay Three: Drama Essay	200
Capstone Project	250
Quizzes	50
Weekly Work	80
Discussions	75
Participation	45
Final Exam: Post Test	50
Extra Credit: Reflections	(10 each, but optional)
Total	1000

There are seven types of assignments in the class.

1. Quizzes which should be taken under the assessments → Quizzes tab. These quizzes test your knowledge on the background material in each section and the primary sources you read about.
2. Discussion Boards which should be submitted under the Assessment → Discussions tab. These assignments require to you post content and reply to your peers. They are typically the culmination of a day's work.
3. Weekly Assignments which should be submitted under the Assessments → Dropbox tab. These are practice. You'll often put more than one assignment in the weekly folder each week. The weekly assignments are meant to be completed throughout the week as the culmination of a module. However, the folder closes when the last weekly assignment is due each week, so you can do these all at once or throughout the week.

4. Essays which should be submitted under the Assessments → Dropbox tab. These are the culminating assignment of each unit.
5. The Research project: A semester long project which includes a proposal, learning logs, a final project, and a reflection.
6. Participation: You are graded on your participation on a rubric. Positive actions like participating, asking questions, and answering questions can gain you points. Actions that conflict with the student handbook like bullying, disruption, etc. can make you lose points.
7. Reflections on completed papers will be added throughout the semester; they will be due one week after an essay is returned under the Assessment-->Dropbox tab. Reflections are extra credit. These should be submitted under the Assessments → Dropbox tab.

Except for the essays, all the other major assignments have firm due dates. This means they may not be submitted late. Essays may be submitted late at a 10 point penalty per day. The final project may not be submitted late as it's at the end of the semester.

A note on due dates: Quizzes will occur throughout the week. Written assignments will be due at the end of the week on Friday. For discussion boards, the replies will be due a few days after the "post date". I'll remind you to reply to peers.

Unless, you opt out, I may use your writing as a sample for your peers in this or future classes.

Discussion Boards and Weekly Assignments: All written homework is to be typed and formatted using MLA rules with 12 point Times New Roman or Arial font. All work besides the major essays have hard deadlines. You cannot turn them in late. You may complete them early though. All assignments due dates are noted in eLearn.

Submitting Major Assignments: All major essays should be submitted to the dropbox by the due date. The major assignments all have soft deadlines. If they aren't by the due date, they will be counted as late. According to English department policies, essays are penalized 10 percent a day, so after 10 days, a paper can score no higher than a zero. The first day late starts one minute after the due date at noon. In addition, you may request extensions on the major assignments if you notify me two days before the due date. Extensions will only be granted because of emergencies and with documentation. Last, the final essay / research project cannot be turned in late because of grade submission deadlines.

Class Participation

Participation: Please be respectful to your fellow classmates as well as your instructor. Your participation grade is positively affected by participating in class, in breakout groups, and discussions. Rudeness will negatively affect your participation grade in the class. There will be participation grades worth about 4.5% of the grade.

This course will be conducted in an atmosphere of mutual respect and affirms people of all gender expressions and identities. I am happy to be addressed as Mr. McMahan. I was provided with a class roster with your name as it appears in the Banner system. However, if you prefer to be called a different name than what is on the roster, please let me know. You may also share your gender pronouns with me through email.

This class discusses several sensitive topics. You are welcome to disagree with your classmates (and your teacher), but be respectful of others' ideas and opinions.

Because we will all be learning together, it is important that each individual feel comfortable and safe in class. Be advised, then, that any comments or actions that could make any individual (including the instructor) feel unsafe will not be tolerated. This includes remarks that show a lack of respect for the feelings and remarks of others, as well as any that demean others by virtue of race, ethnicity, gender, religion, sexual orientation, physical appearance, political affiliation, and the like. Of course, you are welcome (indeed, expected) to disagree with one another, but you must discuss different views in a manner that is not a personal attack or power-based. If, after a verbal warning, the disruptive behavior persists, you may be charged with disruptive behavior under the Student Conduct Code and your case referred to the Dean of Students.

Some of the works we will be reading in class might address religious, racial, and sexual themes. However, I expect students to acknowledge the difference between ideas promoted by characters and/or authors and teaching provided by me. If you have any problems concerning these themes, please come and talk to me so that we can avoid a misunderstanding.

Attendance Policy: You may have six absences; afterward, you'll lose one letter grade per absence.

Course and Class Policies/Procedures

Communication: The biggest thing you can do to succeed in the class is communicate with me. If you're having trouble with a specific unit, let me know and we can go into further detail to get you to where you want to be. So too, if a life situation arises, let me know sooner rather than later, and we can talk about strategies to help you achieve your goals.

The best way to contact me is by using elearn. Only use my Walters State email for emergencies or if elearn is down. I'll typically check it Monday through Friday between 9-5. I will not check it on weekends. It helps me respond more quickly if you let me know your course, section, and the assignment you have a question on.

If you need to meet with me, please consult the office hours or schedule a meeting.

To protect your privacy, I won't engage with emails from a non-WSCC address.

Remember, email lacks the nuances of speech, so strive to use a respectful tone; I'll do the same! Last rule of thumb, I'll assume you're trying your best, and I hope you'll assume the best of me too. Let's work together to create a collegial classroom.

Inclement Weather: If school is officially cancelled due to weather, I'll make an announcement of an alternative task by noon of the day in question.

The instructor reserves the right to modify this syllabus at any time with written notification to the students. ### COURSE GROUND RULES

- Students must attend the first day of on-ground class or contact the instructor prior to the first class. Failure to do this may result in being dropped from the class. Excessive absences may substantially lower the course grade.
- Regular class attendance is a student's obligation for any course regardless of format. (See the Walters State Catalog/Student Handbook). If a student misses class, it is his or her responsibility to contact the instructor regarding missed assignments and/or activities and to be prepared for the next class assignment.
- Students enrolled in web courses must follow the course attendance policy defined for online attendance during the first week of class and throughout the term. Failure to do this may result in being dropped from the class during week one OR may result in the accrual of absences which may negatively impact the student's grade in the course.

Use of electronic devices is prohibited unless use of the device is relevant to the activity and use is sanctioned by the faculty member in charge. Electronic devices that are not relevant to the activity or sanctioned by the faculty member in charge should be set so that they will not produce an audible sound during classroom instruction or other college-sponsored academic activity.

FINANCIAL AID

Students receiving any type of financial aid or scholarship should contact the Financial Aid Office before making any changes to their schedule. Schedule changes without prior approval may result in loss of award for the current term and future terms.

All forms of student Financial Aid may be jeopardized or lost due to the lack of Satisfactory Academic Progress in one or multiple courses. Lack of Satisfactory Academic Progress may negatively impact a student's degree/certificate completion pace and further jeopardize Financial Aid eligibility.
