Student Learning Outcomes/Objectives

- By the end of this course, students will be able to
 1. apply ENGL 1010 planning, organizing, drafting, revising and editing skills to the writing of literary argument papers in ENGL 1020.
 2. read closely primary and secondary sources and understand them at interpretive and evaluative levels in preparation for writing about them.
 3. distinguish among opinions, facts, inferences, and persuasive approaches in primary and secondary sources.
 4. formulate thesis sentences based on readings of primary and/or secondary sources, to select material from them to support the thesis, and to write papers with well-developed ideas supporting the thesis.
 5. use appropriate rhetorical patterns, such as comparison/contrast and argumentation, to demonstrate an understanding of the elements of fiction, poetry and drama in coherent essays which develop literary arguments from process to product.
 6. manage, coordinate, and document primary and secondary sources according to MLA style in solving problems and arriving at decisions in the writing process.
 7. compose papers using correct diction, syntax, usage, grammar, and mechanics.

Instructional Approach and Methods

1. The student will write at least 300 words on an assigned topic at the first class meeting in order to refer the student with basic mechanical difficulties to placement testing or to the English Learning Lab Technician. Students must also take a non-credit, objective MSV pre-test within the first week of classes.

2. In addition to the first-day writing sample, the student will write a minimum of five papers of at least 600 words each throughout the course. At least four of these five papers must include primary source quotations and be documented according to MLA style. At least one of these five must also include quotations from secondary sources such as articles from the WSCC Library databases. If the instructor chooses, one of these papers may be an essay examination of 600 words. All papers other than timed, in-class essays must contain an MLA-style Works Cited page. These six papers represent a minimum for the course, and with drafts and informal writing assignments, students should write over 5000 words during the semester.
3. The student will keep all required paper drafts and make revisions according to instructions. The instructor may require that this process be completed electronically. Any major paper assignments evaluated outside of eLearn must be submitted to the instructor at the end of the semester.
4. The student must rewrite any lost papers. The student must also complete the objective MSV post-test, which will count toward the final grade.
5. The student will plan before writing each paper. For this purpose the student will write formal outlines.

Assessment, Evaluation and Testing Procedures

The instructor evaluates each paper on its own merits. While there is no single formula for evaluating any paper, in this course all papers will be assessed by standard checklists. These checklists will address criteria such as the quality of content and organization, thesis, specific detail to support and develop general statements, and the number and frequency of serious errors (such as fragments, comma splices, fused sentences, errors in agreement and tense, and awkward constructions). Repeated errors and deficiencies become significant in the evaluation of the student's writing. Since progress is the principal objective, students will have multiple opportunities to demonstrate mastery of the evaluated criteria.

Course and Class Policies/Procedures

Assignments and Deadlines

Due dates in our course are firm.

As noted in the English department syllabus, late assignments, i.e. the final draft of a paper, will receive a grade letter deduction each day the assignment is late (including weekends). After the third day, I will not accept the late assignment or late assignments. All work this semester must be submitted in Arial, 12 point font, and in a word doc, word docx., or pdf file. Assignments produced with or by AI-software will not be accepted for a grade.

All eLearn quizzes except the pretest and posttest are 2-attempt quizzes. In other words, you get a second chance to demonstrate mastery of the material. The higher of the 2 grades will be recorded. From time to time, I will give a quiz in class to ensure that the assigned readings are completed. Discussion boards lock after the deadline. It is not possible to reopen boards after the deadline.

Grades are earned, not given! Your grade will directly reflect the effort you place into your writing.

Essay Grades

To earn the best grade on an essay, you should do the following:

Spend time with the writing process. The quality of the writing process directly relates to the quality of the essay. Spending time with the writing process will help you to earn better essay grades.

FOLLOW DIRECTIONS. The essays will have detailed set of directions. Not following these directions will lower your essay grade. If you submit an essay that does not follow the directions, I will grade the paper “as is,” and you will receive a significantly lower grade.

FOLLOW DEADLINES. Late essays are accepted but are penalized a letter grade per day that the essay is late. No essay is accepted after the last day of class in order to give the instructor time to grade. Because due dates are so important in this class, students have the following resources to help them know important due dates:

Due dates will be on the course home page in eLearn

LATE WORK FOR DISCUSSION BOARDS AND QUIZZES WILL NOT BE ACCEPTED! Please do not ask for assignments to be opened after due dates unless you have an emergency.

Generally, early work is accepted, so students with scheduling problems should use wise time management skills to avoid late penalties.

If you are absent when an assignment is scheduled, it is still due. You may submit via eLearn dropbox to receive partial credit. The sooner a document is received, the fewer points may be deducted. To avoid losing points, you can submit your assignment before your absence.

Procedures

Plagiarism

Don't Plagiarize! Plagiarism is a serious offense. Using sources without proper citation is considered plagiarism. For example, copying and pasting from sources without proper citation for those sources is cheating. The first offense for plagiarism is a ZERO on the essay. The second offense for plagiarism is a ZERO for the course.

Each item submitted to the eLearn dropbox can be checked for plagiarism by utilizing a program called Turn It In, which color codes plagiarized material with links to websites. It will detect plagiarism even if the student has attempted to reword the material. Any suspected instance of plagiarism will be checked through this program.

Procedure for Submission of Work

I require all essays to be submitted to the Dropbox for plagiarism detection and feedback will be given in Dropbox as well. All essays should be uploaded to the dropbox BEFORE the dropbox closes, or the essay will be penalized as outlined above.

You can email me via eLearn email. Please keep in mind that while I do check eLearn email often, I may not do so in the evenings or on weekends. YOU SHOULD ALLOW A MINIMUM OF 24 HOURS FOR A RESPONSE TO AN EMAIL. ON WEEKENDS, YOU MAY NOT RECEIVE A RESPONSE UNTIL MONDAY MORNING.

In the event of a grade dispute, it is the student's responsibility to provide documentation of course work.

Additional Course Requirements/Details/Information

English 1020 is a course that will require you to write a lot. You can expect to write every day in this class. The best way to become a good writer is to write.

Come to class and be prepared to discuss topics. A good classroom environment is one where everyone feels free to share their perspective. While articulate and passionate discussion is expected, everyone will have their moment to speak.

Comments, whether in the physical classroom or online, are expected to be thoughtful and respectful. Any response that is deemed inappropriate or "out of bounds" will be penalized by receiving a grade of a zero for participation.

The course work for this class will be intense, but it can be done provided you come to class, follow the instructions, and possess a positive attitude.

While I will challenge you during this course, I will not disrespect you. I am here to help you. There are no such things as stupid questions. I look forward to all the good work you will do.

If a student misses class, it is his or her responsibility to contact the instructor regarding missed assignments and/or activities and to be prepared for the next class assignment.
- Students enrolled in web courses must follow the course attendance policy defined for online attendance during the first week of class and throughout the term. Failure to do this may result in being dropped from the class during week one OR may result in the accrual of absences which may negatively impact the student's grade in the course.
