Student Learning Outcomes/Objectives

- Design and implement control system networks.
- Setup and apply servo motor control systems.
- Integrate PLC technology to control automated work cells.
- Create tags in Rockwell Automation Compactlogix PLC's using the proper conventions, parameters, and scope.
- Configure network communication of integer and bit data between PLC's of the same type.
- Configure network communication of integer and bit data between PLC's of different vendors.
- Design and implement an HMI program to interface with a PLC control system.
- Use Logix5000 SFC(sequential function chart) to automate a sequential process.
- Use a function block diagram to automate a sequential process using TIA software and a Siemens PLC.
- Scale and filter an analog current input(4-20mA) to a PLC.
- Scale and filter an analog current output(4-20mA) from a PLC.
- Use a current output (4-20mA) from a PLC to control the speed of a VFD(variable frequency drive).
- Configure a PID(proportional, integral, derivative) program to control a process.

Instructional Approach and Methods

Class topics will be introduced through lectures that include power-point presentations provided in eLEARN. Examples of programming applications will then be demonstrated using various PLC and HMI software. Microsoft Teams will be used to record the lectures and examples for student review.

Student projects will be assigned to reinforce the material covered and verify understanding and competency. In lieu of a textbook; powerpoints and equipment manuals will provide the reference material for the course.

Course and Class Policies/Procedures

Class projects are individual assignments and each student must turn in their own work. It is okay for students to provide assistance to each other but it is not okay for students to copy the work of others.

All the projects that are turned in can and will be checked with software to identify differences. If more than one student is found to have turned in an identical file for an assignment, both students will receive a 0.

Academic Program Standards/Policies/Accreditation Information

The AAS degree in Electrical Engineering Technology and the AAS degree in Engineering Systems Technology are both accredited by the Association of Technology, Management and Applied Engineering, or ATMAE. Students should be mindful of this and make sure to include this information on resumes when the job search process begins.

This syllabus is only valid for the semester/year specified and course requirements are not guaranteed for future semesters.

COURSE GROUND RULES

- Students must attend the first day of on-ground class or contact the instructor prior to the first class. Failure to do this may result in being dropped from the class. Excessive absences may substantially lower the course grade.
- Regular class attendance is a student's obligation for any course regardless of format. (See the Walters State Catalog/Student Handbook). If a student misses class, it is his or her responsibility to contact the instructor regarding missed assignments and/or activities and to be prepared for the next class assignment.
- Students enrolled in web courses must follow the course attendance policy defined for online attendance during the first week of class and throughout the term. Failure to do this may result in being dropped from the class during week one OR may result in the accrual of absences which may negatively impact the student's grade in the course.
- Students who have not paid fees on time and/or are not correctly registered for this class and whose names do not appear on official class rolls generated by the Walters State student information system (MyWS) will not be allowed to remain in class or receive credit for this course.

Use of electronic devices is prohibited unless use of the device is relevant to the activity and use is sanctioned by the faculty member in charge. Electronic devices that are not relevant to the activity or sanctioned by the faculty member in charge should be set so that they will not produce an audible sound during classroom instruction or other college-sponsored academic activity.

FINANCIAL AID

Students receiving any type of financial aid or scholarship should contact the Financial Aid Office before making any changes to their schedule. Schedule changes without prior approval may result in loss of award for the current term and future terms.

All forms of student Financial Aid may be jeopardized or lost due to the lack of Satisfactory Academic Progress in one or multiple courses. Lack of Satisfactory Academic Progress may negatively impact a student's degree/certificate completion pace and further jeopardize Financial Aid eligibility.
